

Villa Miana

Region: Le Marche Sleeps: 10

Overview

Villa Miana is the quintessential traditional Italian farmhouse, offering abundant rustic charm and original features blending with contemporary comforts. Dating to the 18th century, this rambling home offers a warm and home-like feel, original stone, sloping roofs and pretty wooden shutters, set within acres of fragrant grounds, dotted with olive and lemon trees.

Nestled within a rural idyll, this majestic home offers a true retreat from the bustle of modern living and the strains of urban life. Villa Miana is a wonderful family holiday home, offering tranquillity and seclusion within strikingly simple yet verdant surroundings, close to the local amenities.

The interiors are charmingly finished. An open-plan living and dining room offers authentic farmhouse charm, with exposed brickwork and timber beams, cosy sofas for curling up at the end of a busy day, and informal dining options.

Le Marche is known for its wonderful local gastronomy. The kitchen is sleek and simple, offering quality fittings and abundant tasteful, farmhouse ambience.

A delightful blend of old and new comprises original arches, brick fireplaces and antique furnishings alongside natural, slick and understated luxury across the serene bedrooms. There are four bedrooms and a self-contained annexe with an additional en-suite bedroom.

The gardens offer verdant lawns, gorgeous greenery, a hammock for reclining with a good book and a children's play area; at Villa Miana, guests can enjoy a return to a more traditional and sedate way of life.

Location & Local Information

Nestled in sublime nature between the Adriatic coast on the Sibillini mountains, not far from the famous Abbey of Fiastra in the Marche region, Villa Miana occupies a rural spot.

The Marche is a glorious and unspoiled region of Italy, known for its rugged and remote nature, sweeping sandy beaches and intriguing history– from sites such as Loreto to the stunning caves of Frasassi. Compared to its neighbours, Umbria and Tuscany, the Marche is considered a slice of authentic and uncommercial Italy.

Whether it be wine tasting, exploring the coastland, indulging in water sports, or meandering around the winding valleys of the local hillside towns, this region has something for everyone.

Many of the small, walled historical towns are worth a visit, many with opulent churches with stunning frescos preserved from the eleventh century.

Petriolo is a pretty, medieval village with cobbled streets and beautiful squares lined with local cafes, bakeries and family friendly restaurants.

The Abbey of Fiastra is just ten minutes away, set within a nature reserve, with facilities for horse riding, wooded walks and a fabulous coffee bar for refuelling. There is also a small golf club and abundant trails for hiking or mountain biking.
