Location & Local Information

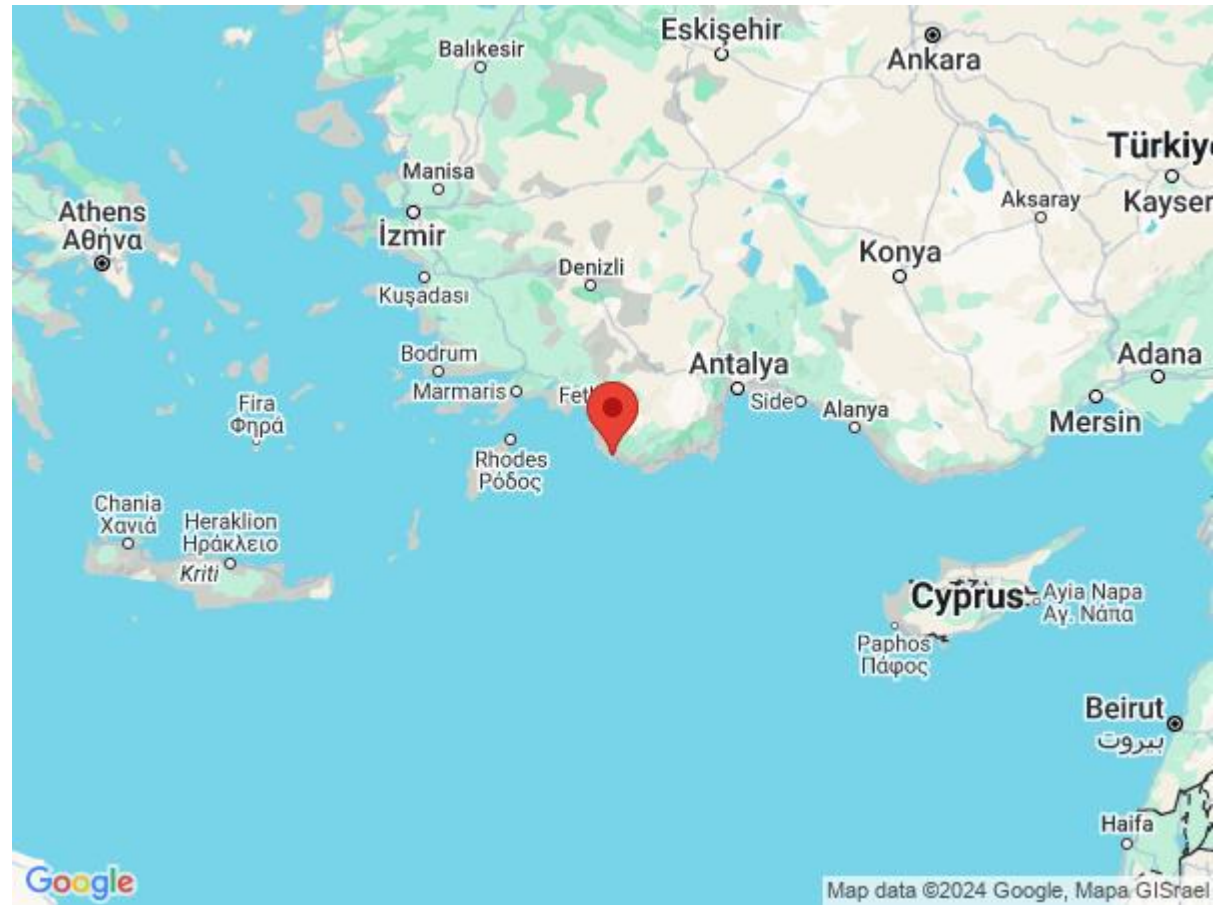

Gelemis is located near the ancient city of Patara and offers a delightful array of activities for travellers seeking a blend of cultural exploration and natural beauty. Gelemis has various restaurants and bars along with a taxi rank, should you wish to explore or go to the beach. There is also a small shop around 500m from Tepedeki Evi.

Begin your journey with a visit to the nearby ruins of Patara, an ancient Lycian city boasting well-preserved structures such as the monumental arch and a stunning amphitheatre. Once a thriving Lycian city with its impressive theatre and ancient port, the government building is said to be the foundation of democracy. There are many other Lycian sites, such as Xanthos, Letoon & Tlos, within a short drive.

Nature enthusiasts can explore the picturesque Patara Beach, a sweeping stretch of golden sand flanked by dunes and nesting grounds for endangered loggerhead turtles. The surrounding landscape of Gelemis invites exploration with hiking and cycling trails winding through olive groves and pine forests, offering panoramic views of the Mediterranean coastline.

Venture further inland to discover traditional Turkish villages like Islamlar, known for its scenic vineyards and authentic cuisine. Sample local delicacies such as fresh seafood, mezes, and traditional Turkish kebabs at charming restaurants in Gelemis and nearby towns.

Whether you're interested in history, outdoor adventures, or culinary delights, Gelemis and its surroundings promise every traveller a memorable and enriching experience.
